FOCUS ON UNIVERSITY VALUES: COLLABORATION

The Division of Administration and Finance contributes to the University mission by managing resources and creating a culture that facilitates and promotes teaching, learning and research. The values of our Division provide a foundation for all of our professional interactions, division goals and campus initiatives. Collaboration is one of four core values of our Division.

Collaboration is defined as the act of working with others; of sharing information with one another to achieve a common goal. Collaborating with others is an essential component of team work, communication and productivity. The Division recognizes collaboration as an essential component in developing and sustaining strong relationships with students, campus partners and colleagues. Together, collaboration enables the university and the Division to seek creative approaches to complex issues and to achieve superior results via listening and sharing of ideas.

Physical Plant Undergoes Department Name Change

In order to more accurately reflect departmental responsibilities, it was reported in the May 2012 Division Newsletter that three departments within our Division have recently changed their name: Facilities Management is now called Facilities Planning and Management, Design & Construction is now called Capital Project Management and Environmental Health & Instructional Safety is now Environmental Health & Safety. In addition to these department names changes, Physical Plant is also undergoing a name change to Facilities Operations. This change was made effective on July 1, 2012.
